

TEAM REFLECTION W5

M/S STENA DANICA

This week we continued working with the project. We started merging more often, which is more agile. When we merged we initially got many conflicts, which made us realize even more the importance of merging often.

We connected some parts of the frontend with some parts of the backend.

We had a small problem with git with clashing Android Studios and gradle files that we managed to resolve.

We need to get better at working with the Scrum board; we need to keep it up to date more and use the user stories more. If they grow to big, they should be broken down more. We should also get better at updating the design model and commenting the code we push.
